TÜV SÜD Energietechnik GmbH Baden-Württemberg is a new member of the World Nuclear Association

Filderstadt, Germany. TÜV SÜD Energietechnik GmbH Baden-Württemberg GmbH has joined the World Nuclear Association. The aim of the organisation, which was founded in 2001, is to promote a wider understanding of nuclear energy and to support companies active in this field.

TÜV SÜD Energietechnik GmbH Baden-Württemberg specialises in technical services in the field of energy and systems engineering as well as consulting, assessment and testing services. In Germany, the company is primarily active as an expert organisation in accordance with Section 20 of the Atomic Energy Act on behalf of the responsible supervisory authorities.

“As a member of the World Nuclear Association, we want to play our part in making the peaceful use of nuclear energy as safe as possible,” says Dr Lars-Thilo Voss, Managing Director of TÜV SÜD Energietechnik GmbH Baden-Württemberg. “Our experts have extensive experience in all areas of nuclear technology and are familiar with national international regulations.”

Further information on the services of TÜV SÜD Energietechnik GmbH Baden-Württemberg and other TÜV SÜD companies in this field can be found at www.tuvsud.com/nuclear.
