OUR HISTORY

1958

TÜV SÜD Global Risk Consultants (GRC) was borne of the need to provide fire and boiler & machinery loss prevention engineering services to captive insurance companies. F. M. Reiss founded the captive concept, American Risk Management, in northeast Ohio.

1985

The Infrared Practice was established to provide Infrared Thermographic services to the TÜV SÜD GRC portfolio worldwide. This robust level of service included Infrared Thermography, Ultrasonic Examination, and Visual Identification studies with a global standardization of approach using state-of-the-art technology.

1988

The organization developed into a mid-sized, international company under Mr. Reiss' direction until the company was sold to Swiss Reinsurance Company.

1998

The name of the loss control consulting segment of the business was officially changed to TÜV SÜD Global Risk Consultants, descriptive of its expanding global breadth and presence.

1993

ARISE was established as a subsidiary to provide jurisdictional inspection services.

1992

Bundled loss prevention services to captives gave way to independent, unbundled loss prevention services on a global basis, earning TÜV SÜD GRC (then American Risk Consultants) the distinct establishment as the "Pioneer of the Unbundled Loss Control Program".

2001

In January, with 200 employees in eight countries, senior management purchased Swiss Re's interest in TÜV SÜD GRC, enabling further expansion of its consulting services.

2010

On May 11, GRC was acquired by TÜV SÜD, a testing, inspection, and certification organization based in Munich, Germany. With more than 150 years of combined expertise and an extensive global network, the joint know-how of these two organizations adds to an already diversified portfolio for existing and future customers alike.

2015

TÜV SÜD GRC acquired in full Global Risk Miyamoto and adds Natural Hazard Analysis to the list of offered services.
